THE CO-OPERATIVE HOUSING PROGRAM FRAMEWORK

FACT SHEET 3 OF 4

The 'Program Framework' describes all the elements that make our program work: the roles co-ops and CEHL will fulfil, the rules we must all follow, the relationships CEHL and co-ops have in working together and the range of services our Program will offer. The Program Framework can be updated by a decision of the CEHL Board.

The Program Principles outline the key considerations for all decision-making within the CEHL Co-operative Housing Program.

When is the Framework updated?

The Program Framework is formally reviewed on a regular basis, but updates can also be triggered by changes to laws, regulations or finances that impact our Program.

There are also opportunities that from time-to-time require CEHL to assess whether they suit our current framework or whether a change or addition to our Program Framework needs to be made.

Regardless of the reason, all proposals for change need to be considered in the light of our Program Principles, member co-op feedback and the strategic plans of the CEHL Board before being adopted.

Adaptable Framework

The Program Framework is a set of roles, relationships and rules that makes sure Program goals can be met. These will change from time to time, to adapt to changes in the economy, external laws and regulations.

The Program Framework is also influenced by the ideas and feedback from Program members, as well as new knowledge and ideas developed over time. As these things change, so does our Program Framework.

Rapid changes in the external environment over recent years has stressed the importance of carefully planning the way our Program Framework changes, ensuring that it remains true to our purpose and supports our future plans.
